Transparency International's submission to the European Commission's consultation on whistleblower protection

Admin · Monday, May 15th, 2017

From Antoine Deltour to Zuzana Hlavkova, stories of ordinary people who want to expose corruption and wrong-doing are hitting the headlines time and time again. But these brave individuals are risking their careers and even legal action just for doing the right thing. That is why we urgently need whistleblower protection.

The European Commission is currently running a public consultation into the need for EU-wide whistleblower protection. We at Transparency International have just submitted our views to the Commission's call, which you can find below.

If you would like to contribute to the public consultation click here, open until May 29.
